NHL HOCKEY

Countdown to the 2010 Olympics

The NHL season has passed the halfway point and the surprises have been few. Detroit struggling for a playoff spot is one, but with the amount of injuries they have had there may be an excuse. Philly will rebound and the Western wonders (Colo, PHX and Nashville) will probably fade. However, the NHL wants parody and that is what they have.

MIXED MARTIAL ARTS

UFC 109 - Redemption

Do not adjust your TV sets because this is not 1991. The main event of UFC 109 is Randy Couture vs. Mark Coleman. These two are legends of the sport and veterans who have seen it all. It is a testament to their skill and popularity that they are still headlining PPV's years after what should have been their prime. Both men are still capable of beating almost anyone in the heavyweight division, however, this could be the end for the loser. Tune in to watch two "Living Legends" collide this Saturday on PPV at 10pm Eastern

NFL FOOTBALL

"Big Game"

Both teams were undefeated well into the season. Both teams have offences that could keep up with the Los Angeles Lakers. Both teams have quarterbacks that could lead soldiers into war. The only underdog in this game are the defensive co-ordinators. Rarely, does the last game of the season feature the two teams who deserve to be there, so this year we are in for a treat. For once, the commercials may be an afterthought. For once, halftime might be the time for a bathroom break and not the actual game. This Sunday, New Orleans faces Indianapolis in an epic showdown of powerhouse teams. The Who is the halftime act but be prepared for some other surprises. Coverage starts at 11am eastern and ends next September so do not miss it.
